

Mrs. John W. Fogg Crosses Great Divide

Was One of This County's Best Beloved Women—Had Been An Invalid for Years

Mrs. John W. Fogg, one of Montgomery county's best known and most highly respected women, died at noon today at her home, two miles from this city. Mrs. Fogg had been an invalid for many years, bearing her sufferings with true Christian fortitude. Her condition became critical several weeks ago and she gradually became weaker until the end came, and surrounded by her devoted family she passed to her reward. Mrs. Fogg is survived by her husband and four children: Mrs. Arthur Blevins, of Maysville; Mrs. Fred Hinson, Miss Lura Fogg and Vernon Fogg, of this city.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

PARI-MUTUEL BILL KILLED

The effort to abolish betting on horse races in Kentucky through enactment of laws prohibiting operation of pari-mutuel machines on race tracks has again been defeated.

By a vote of 21 to 14, in which party lines were entirely obliterated, the Senate yesterday morning killed the Sims Bill, which had as its purpose the inclusion of pari-mutuels among the forms of gambling prohibited by law. The vote was taken on Senator Herman F. Monroe's motion to adopt the minority report of the Senate Agricultural Committee, after that body had voted 4 to 3 to report the bill favorably to the Senate. After debate of a little less than an hour the Monroe motion passed, practically eliminating the measure from further consideration at this session.

The two parties were as evenly divided on the bill as was possible, 11 Democrats and 10 Republicans combining to kill the bill, while 7 members of each party supported it.

BAINBRIDGE COLBY SUCCEEDS LANSING

Bainbridge Colby, of New York, who was one of the leaders of the Progressive party under Theodore Roosevelt, will succeed Robert Lansing as Secretary of State.

Announcement of his selection by President Wilson was made yesterday at the White House.

The selection of Mr. Colby came as a surprise, most officials assuming that Frank L. Polk, acting secretary, would be the President's choice. The first inkling that the President was to appoint some one outside of his official family came when Mr. Colby visited the White House early yesterday in company with Raymond T. Baker, director of the Mint.

Mr. Colby was taken to see the President on the South lawn and a few minutes later the formal announcement of his selection was made. His nomination is expected to be sent to the Senate within a day or two.

This is not the first office Mr. Colby has held under the President's administration. He was appointed a member of the Shipping Board and the Emergency Fleet Corporation in July, 1917, and also was a member of the American mission to the Inter-Allied shipping conference at Paris in the same year. He retired from the Shipping Board more than a year ago.

Mr. Colby was a lifelong Republican until the famous Bull Moose bolt at the Chicago convention in 1912. He had been actively identified with the candidacy of Theodore Roosevelt for President that year and was in charge of contests to seat the Roosevelt delegates in the Chicago convention.

When Colonel Roosevelt halted the convention, Mr. Colby helped to found the Progressive party and was a delegate to its Chicago convention in 1912. He continued an active leader in that party and in 1914 and again in 1916 he was a Progressive candidate for Senator of the United States Senate.

When Colonel Roosevelt threw the weight of his influence to Charles E. Hughes in the 1916 presidential race, Mr. Colby identified himself with the Democratic party.

Mr. Colby was born in St. Louis 51 years ago and graduated from Williams College, Massachusetts. He spent one year at the Columbia law school and has practiced law in New York since 1892. He was a member of the New York assembly in 1901-1902.

FRANKFORT MAY BE CONTROLLED BY STATE

The idea of Lieutenant Governor Ballard that Frankfort ought to be taken over by the state, somewhat on the plan of control at Washington, was formulated into a resolution introduced by Representative Lazarus and passed by the House yesterday, providing for the appointment of a commission to investigate the project.

The March bill, requiring the handling of eggs, the Macellen bill to regulate storage of food, and the Smith bills, taxing gasoline 2 cents on the gallon and motor vehicles $1 the horse power were reported favorably in the House.

Veteran Newspaper Man Dies in Lexington

Col. W. P. Walton, One of the State's Foremost Newspaper Men, Dies in Lexington

W. P. Walton, widely known newspaper man and editor, died at the residence of Mrs. F. A. Harrison, in Lexington Wednesday night. He was 68 years old. Colonel Walton had been ill for some time, but his death came rather suddenly.

Col. Walton was known throughout Central Kentucky as an able editor, for years conducting the Stanford "Interior-Journal," which, under his direction, became one of the most widely read and most influential country newspapers in the State.

Mr. Walton was born near Louisa Court House, Va., April 12, 1852, and came to Kentucky in the early seventies as a railroad contractor on the Southern Railroad.

He later purchased the "Interior-Journal" and for 25 years personally conducted and edited the paper, making it one of the best newspapers of its kind in the State. He then sold the paper and plant to his brother, E. C. Walton, who at present is the editor.

Twenty years ago Mr. Walton went to Lexington and established the Democrat, a daily newspaper, which continued in existence for almost two years.

He later purchased and edited the Frankfort State Journal, which he sold about ten years ago to its present owner, Graham Vreeland.

For several years Mr. Walton was connected with the Herald, doing various work for the paper. He was the founder and editor of The Lexington Weekly, which had a short but eventful existence six or seven years ago.

During all of his life Colonel Walton was wholeheartedly in support of the Democratic party in the state and though he never held a public office, was a dominant figure in many elections. During his career Colonel Walton has done miscellaneous work for many newspapers in the State. For practically the past 20 years Mr. Walton made his home in Lexington with the exception of the short time he controlled the Frankfort State Journal.

Colonel Walton was a candidate for Secretary of State at one time and has been publicity man and headquarters leader in many state political campaigns.

BROTHERLY LOVE IN LETTER AND SPIRIT

Brotherly love, both in letter and spirit, has been presented in a war romance which is now interesting the nation. Miss Emily Knowles, a young English girl, was wooed by Lieutenant Perley A. Spiker, U. S. aviation service, while he was stationed there during the war. Lieutenant Spiker was married, his wife living here at the home in Baltimore. Now Emily Knowles comes to America with her three-months-old baby, upon the invitation of Cora Spiker, wife of the aviator. Then enters Guy Spiker, unwed brother of the father of the baby, who offered to marry the English girl and give the baby name and home. The pictures are of Emily Knowles and her baby, Mrs. Cora Spiker, wife of the baby's father, and Guy Spiker, the brother who is making the sacrifice for the girl and baby.

PASSING THE BUCK

Republicans, wet, dry and pseudo-dry have been engaged in the diverting pastime of "passing the buck" on the prohibition enforcement act. Knowing that practically all of the milk has been squeezed out of the prohibition cocoon, so far as appeal to the dry section is concerned by national legislation, and wishing to propitiate whatever wet strength they attained in the 1919 landslide, they have desired all along to give the Senate Democrats the not altogether desirable duty of taking the initiative in enacting enforcement legislation, particularly as the druggists of the State have let up a great howl over some provisions of the bill.

Senate Democrats have regarded this as an administration matter, for the Republicans to thresh out among themselves, well knowing that the Democratic party's attitude on the prohibition issue was satisfactorily set forth by party platform and performance. The antics of the House Republicans when confronted with any issue demanding leadership or statesmanship are indeed ludicrous.

The good roads bill, as agreed on by the administration forces, left many sections of Kentucky practically "holding the bag," and unprotected. Democrats refused to pass this bill with 54 amendments in a single morning, without giving it due consideration, but it was railroaded through the House, and then put up to the Senate for some deliberative action.

The inevitable kicks which will follow from communities and sections which did not get what they expected will surely be laid at the door of the administration and the Republican majority in the House, which passed a measure affecting generations of Kentuckians to come, and involving the expenditure of millions of dollars annually, without even having the matter printed and laid on the desks of the members.

A hard fight in behalf of the minimum wage law, which is designed to give adequate protection to women and minors of both sexes, was made before the Senate Committee on Immigration, Labor and Manufacturing by a committee of representative men and women, including Col. P. H. Callahan, Mrs. Morris Belknap and Dr. Gagliardi, of the Southern Baptist Seminary.

Colonel Callahan, a leading Democrat of the Falls City, riddled the arguments of the opponents of the measure to the effect that the bill would drive manufacturers out of the State, and gave a dozen reasons for its enactment.

A letter written by William Heyburn, who is one of the "organization" candidates for Republican delegates to the national convention from the Fifth District, was read, in which Mr. Heyburn was quoted as saying that working girls are in more danger when paid high wages than when they draw only the nominal pay of the apprentice. This unusual argument against paying a larger wage to women workers was refuted by the advocates of the bill, who took the view that all girls are entitled to the right of a living wage, assured by a minimum wage law and which was described by Mr. Heyburn.

Republican members of the House had the minimum wage bill set back by having it recommitted after it had been favorably reported by the committee in that branch, the motion to recommit being made by Representative R. G. Bryson, Republican, of Covington. Advocates of the measure claim that when women get the vote they will not soon forget that opposition to their bill was fostered by the majority of the House.

FARMING QUALIFICATIONS

Farmers, for some reason or other, have always been regarded by city dwellers as mentally and economically inferior. There is not so much of this supercilious attitude now as there used to be, but there is plenty of it left. To most young fellows in the city the average farmer is a "Rube" or a "Hick" or a "Hayseed," as it was in the beginning and will be until city folk rise above their own ignorance and proverbiality. There is likewise a common notion, among urban dwellers that anybody can run a farm, and that the city man by mere virtue of his innate superiority can do it, offhand, better than the farmer is doing.

One of this superior class, a city bookkeeper, wrote to a Virginia farmer asking what was required for agricultural success. The farmer thought it over carefully and then, according to the Country Gentleman, mentioned these as the main qualifications:

"A farmer must know about soils, soil drainage, soil chemistry, soil physics, the relation of crops to soil and climate, the rotation of crops, fertilization, best ways of handling and selling crops, how to feed and care for livestock, how to handle livestock in relation to soil and climate, how to repair broken machinery, how to handle various gasoline-engine vehicles, and power plants, how to do carpentry and plumbing, and blacksmithing, must be a good buyer and seller, a good manager, should know enough about bookkeeping to compute costs, must have executive ability, should have the stamina to do fourteen or fifteen hours' work a day, and if frost or hail or drought or flood or high wind brings the year's work to naught, must have the courage to take a drink of water and a cold bath and start over again."

It is all true, too; the successful farmer of today is a man with precisely this accumulation of knowledge and ability, plus a good deal that is hard to put down on paper, but is no less essential.

If anybody is to be looked down on, it is surely the city man who not only lacks the farmer's independence, but whose life has narrowed him to the doing of one thing and left him otherwise helpless.

TO MAKE BRIGHT TOBACCO

The demand is almost entirely for bright tobacco. If we expect to make a paying crop, we must go to work to make bright tobacco. In order to do this, we must plant it early and grow it quick.

Every farmer in the Burley Belt should use fertilizer on his plant beds and enough on his ground to give his tobacco a start and make a quick growth. One bag (125 lbs.) of our Plant Food sowed once over a 9 foot wide and 200 foot long, and raked in with a small hand-rake, will give you strong healthy plants two weeks sooner. Two hundred pounds of our Bright Leaf Tobacco Grower, drilled in or by the side of the row, will give your tobacco a start and make an early, bright, fine crop. It will pay on any land. Four hundred pounds, drilled in or sowed all over the ground, will make a fine tobacco crop and a big wheat crop, and insure you a good stand of grass.

We sell only the V.-C. Fertilizer, made by the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company (the largest manufacturers of fertilizers in the world). This fertilizer has been tried all over this and every other section and has given satisfaction. Our Plant Food has proven to be the best for plant beds, and our Gem Tobacco Fertilizer has ammonia enough to start the plant and give it a quick growth, and sufficient acid phosphate to ripen it with high color. We handle V.-C. Fertilizers exclusively, and are sole agents in the Burley Belt, and we are prepared to ship it to all points in the tobacco belt.

Freight conditions are so bad this year that we advise you to send in your order at once.

INDUSTRIAL STAGNATION

Here is a story that might be told in future years as symbolic of 1919 and, so far, of 1920.

John Brinsmead and Sons, British piano-makers, have announced their intention of closing their factory and retiring from business. Their closing will turn adrift employees who have been with them for 40 years. They set forth these reasons:

Before the war they were turning out one piano a week for every six employees. In 1918 they were producing only one piano a week for every twelve employees. Now they are producing one for every eighteen employees.

The employees, of course, are all paid a great deal more than they used to be. As a result of raised wages combined with multiplication of workers, it costs as much money to polish a piano now as it cost before the war to make a complete piano, including materials. A director says:

"It is simply a question that we cannot go on making pianos at the present high cost and selling at the outrageous figures we do at a loss. We shall not recommence manufacturing, if we ever do, until we can manufacture economically and can sell at prices that will not be robbing the public.

"This is no quarrel with our workers. We have no difference with them. It is simply an unfortunate state of events that we are drifting into by the whole tendency of labor at the present time, which is to force prices up to such an extent that it is impossible to manufacture any more economically."

Here you have a situation that exists not only in the piano industry in Great Britain, but in many industries in many countries, and which is today a significant and menacing fact in American life.

High prices are generally held up as evidence that the dealers or middlemen or manufacturers are "robbing the consumer." Here is a case where the manufacturer admits the "robbery" and is ashamed to charge enough for his goods to make a profit, but reveals the patent fact that he is not the real "robber."

In how many American industries

today are the workmen robbing themselves?

If we shall know each other in Heaven, a lot of Prohibitionists will be perfectly miserable when they discover that they have to associate with a lot of people who believe in Personal Liberty when they were on this earth.

THEN NOR NOW

It is often in talking we say a word that kills the object desired, but in the instance about to be narrated just a word brought a desired end. In the presence of a group of men, not one of whom were as old as the writer sat a man with furrowed face, yet sparkling eyes. The question of age was introduced and after giving attention to the years named by each we gave our age and at this point the elderly looking man gave early experiences of drink, labor and troubles, saying these account for the furrowed face, the bent form. "Those days are behind me and I am forever against the sale of liquor, not so much for my sake, but for the sake of the coming youths. "Stranger, what is your business, said he, and when I told him he replied, "One word you have spoken induces me to subscribe for your time-weekly." The stranger refused to give the impressive thought, but we rather think it was our experiences on the farm and as a working man from early childhood to this good hour measured with his. It shall be our effort to give the very best to these time-honored citizens who with us and ours, are classed with the great common people. The word spoken then and which impressed we did not know, nor do we know it now, but there met that day men with oneness in mind and heart.

A SUCCESSFUL CAREER ENDED

In the passing of Hon. W. P. Walton, an editor of many years, passes a man illustrious and brave. He was a man, one who looked upon facts and principles with a logical and well-trained mind, and when a conclusion was reached was brave in forceful English to give them to the public, indifferent as to "where the chips may fall." W. P. Walton was a character without a duplicate, honest, fearless and true. To Jeffersonian Democracy he was an unerring exponent, true as is the needle to the pole. Such men as Colonel Walton are few; would there were many. May his mantle of truth, wisdom and courage fall on others and may their labors pass on and on to the uplift of this united country. Peace to the ashes of our friend, to the friend of all that's noble and true.

CAVE PLANS

Hard pulls are being made on members of Congress by Western Kentucky citizens seeking to have the Mammoth Cave be made a National Park. We would join with our Western Kentucky citizenship in this laudable effort. Should the government take over this world-famous cavern a hotel to cost $2,000,000 and a system of boulevards would be feature plans. Such an adoption would draw exploring people from all parts of the globe to Kentucky.

TOBACCO SALES

The Farmers held a sale at the warehouse yesterday, selling 195,495 pounds of tobacco at an average of $17.95 per hundred. A price slightly higher than for the past week. All is in readiness for their final big sale on Friday, when two full floors will be sold. The Whitehall and the Robertson warehouses will also have their closing sales tomorrow with full floors.

HIGH CLASS AUCTIONEER

The auction sale of the farm of Mrs. Pattie Riley was made by King & Johnson, Mr. King the auctioneer. We had heard that this was Mr. King's maiden effort. If it was his initial one we are here to say practice will make him an easy rival of Bolivar Bond, a land auctioneer at the very top. We were barred the privilege of attending this sale, and what we are saying of Mr. King comes from others who heard him cry the sale. Mr. King is a fixture here and we are delighted to know we have with us a polished gentleman, of gifts who will make his mark in this profession. King & Johnson make a strong combination and we expect them to become one of the leading real estate firms in Kentucky. Already they have listed many farms and city property, and if pluck and enterprise count for anything they will get the business. Before the people interested Mr. King deals out his store of apt anecdotes, intermingled with native and select wit so that his crowds are held in high spirits, enthusiastic over the subject before them. Montgomery with this addition and the array of like professionals comes to the front second to no other section of the State.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Go to church Sunday. There are a lot of folks in the world who were raised right by good mothers and God-fearing fathers who do not believe in churches. Of course, down deep in their hearts they carry convictions that without the church the world would go to the dogs, absolutely.

Believing this, however, they think it refers to the other fellow, to the rest of the world; that, so far as they are concerned, they can speed gaily along life's highway, have a rip-roaring time, muddy the waters all they please, and everything will be O. K. That is the sort of a fellow who "doesn't care what happens so it doesn't happen to him."

There are men and women who can get along without the church and do no great harm to civilization. They are people of extraordinary poise—and supreme selfishness—who know precisely how to take care of themselves and who are disturbed very little by the problems which relate broadly to humanity the world over.

But of this we may all be sure; all the unrest in the world, all the lawlessness in the world, all the wars, all the crimes, all the hatred, all the bitterness of life, would disappear overnight if everybody in the world would resolve to conform to the teachings of the humble Man in whose name the churches of Christendom will assemble tomorrow for the worship of God.

We are not law-abiding, we spit upon the Sabbath set aside by the Almighty ages ago for the blessing of mankind, we are scornful, we are sacrilegious, we are selfish, and we don't care—because we are not living in harmony with the divine laws.

If we were as deeply impressed with the necessity of conforming to those laws as we are imbued with the idea that the one sure road to salvation is the pursuit of wealth and worldly pleasure, the churches of America would be as crowded on Sunday morning as the movie houses are

NOTED STEAM ENGINEER IN LEXINGTON ON VISIT

N. T. McKee, of New York, held to be the foremost authority on superheated steam in the world, is in Lexington on a visit. He is chief engineer of the Locomotive Superheated Company, the largest organization of its kind. He was born and reared in Mt. Sterling, a son of Judge Henry Clay McKee, and is a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. B. Perry, of Lexington, having married Miss Eula Perry after his graduation at the University of Kentucky.

More than 38,000 locomotives in the United States are equipped with the superheated device developed under Mr. McKee's supervision, and the equipment was installed on many ocean vessels during the war. It produces more steam with less coal, often saving as much as 30 per cent. of the fuel ordinarily required. It is the only device, one authority says, that has produced any marked economy in locomotive operation since the advent of the locomotive into the transportation world.

Mr. McKee spoke to the juniors and seniors of the engineering college at the University Tuesday afternoon.—Lexington Herald.

DRY LAW PASSES IN HOUSE

The beginning of the week in the Legislature Tuesday was marked by the transfer to the Senate of the prohibition enforcement bill, which passed the House last week by a majority of 62 to 23, with amendments which are declared by some of its friends to weaken it, but generally accepted by the dries as not of vital importance, since the stringent jail sentence and penitentiary penalties in the original bill are left intact and the injunction and abatement clauses are all that the dries could wish, though the confiscation feature is eliminated.

The bill as passed conforms to the Volstead federal prohibition law and it is said that it is not likely to be opposed in the Senate. Those who voted against it in the House were: Representatives Ballard, Boling, Bryson, Carlo, Day, Duffy, Foster, Gossett, Gamblin, Holliday, Hudson, Huff, Huntsman, Johnson, Kaufman, Kimbrough, Neel, Travis, Webb, Williamson and Winn.

The bill prohibits the sale, manufacture and gift of all intoxicating liquors except for sacramental, medical, scientific or mechanical purposes, containing more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol.

Medical preparations manufactured in accordance with formulas of authorized schools of medicine, proprietary medicines unfit for beverage use, toilet, medical and antiseptic preparations and solutions, flavoring extracts and syrups unfit for beverage made, vinegar and preserved sweet cider and alcohol medicated, according to such formulas as will render it unfit for beverage purposes are expected.

Punishment for first offense, $50 to $300, fine and thirty to sixty days in jail; second offense, year in prison; third and subsequent offenses, five to ten years.

For corporations which may violate the law, $1,000 to $5,000 fine for first offense, and not less than $5,000 for subsequent offenses.

Manufactures of liquor must file bond of $5,000, and shall file semi-monthly with clerk statement showing make and quality of sales, amount sold and to whom.

Druggists must keep a daily record of sales.

Physicians must keep duplicates in alphabetical order of prescriptions for liquor and each prescription must contain name and address of patient, name of pharmacist and statement that physician is in personal attendance on patient.

Only one pint in ten days may be prescribed.

Druggists and physicians violating the law may be deprived of their licenses for one year.

Public drunkenness is punishable by fine of $10 and $100 and five to thirty days.

Railroad conductors are invested with police power under the act.

Officers, agents or employer of common carriers violating the act are subject to fine of $50 to $500.

On affidavit of state or federal officer and one other citizen, describing the premises wherein intoxicating liquors are suspected of being sold, any magistrate may issue warrant and entrance be enforced.

The act does not apply to manufacturers having permits for transportation under the national prohibition act.

Any person may have liquor in his possession for personal use.

Many people eat too much every day and most eat much too much some days. That is why Americans suffer more than any people in the world from indigestion, biliousness and constipation.

With a little thoughtfulness and care, however, a great amount of this distress could be avoided and you'll never realize how true this is until you become one of the several million people of this country who keep a box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) constantly on hand and use it whenever indigestion, biliousness or constipation threatens.

Unlike laxative purges, cathartics, such as oil, calomel, etc., which rarely force bowel action, Nature's Remedy exerts a beneficial influence upon the entire digestive and eliminative system—the stomach, liver, bowels and even the kidneys. Its purpose is to promote vigorous and harmonious action of all the organs that handle the food and body waste.

That is why the results which follow the use of Nature's Remedy are always a delightful surprise to those who first try it. The action while prompt and thorough, is as mild and gentle and pleasant as Nature herself, and the thorough cleansing the body receives brings a feeling of real relief and benefit such as no laxative pill or cathartic ever produced for anyone.

Get a 25c box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and try it. There is no risk in doing so, for it must give you greater relief and benefit than any liver or bowel medicine you ever used or money back instantly. It is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

Southeastern Kentucky towns are responding most energetically to the offers of Treasury Savings Certificates and War Savings Stamps in the campaign waged by the Postmasters.

E. W. Hackney, postmaster at London, in Laurel County, sold Treasury Savings Certificates to the value of $4,000 and War Savings Stamps to the value of $9,505 in January. "Has any third-class office sold more?" asks Postmaster Hackney in a letter to the Savings Division Organization at St. Louis. "How is this for a small town in the Kentucky Mountain Country?"

Williamsburg in Whitley County, is also piling up a good record. Postmaster E. E. Pritchard, who last fall made a most enviable record, is keeping up the good work, and in January he sold several $1,000 certificates and many $100 certificates in addition to a large volume of War Savings Stamps.

WHAT AILS CASHION

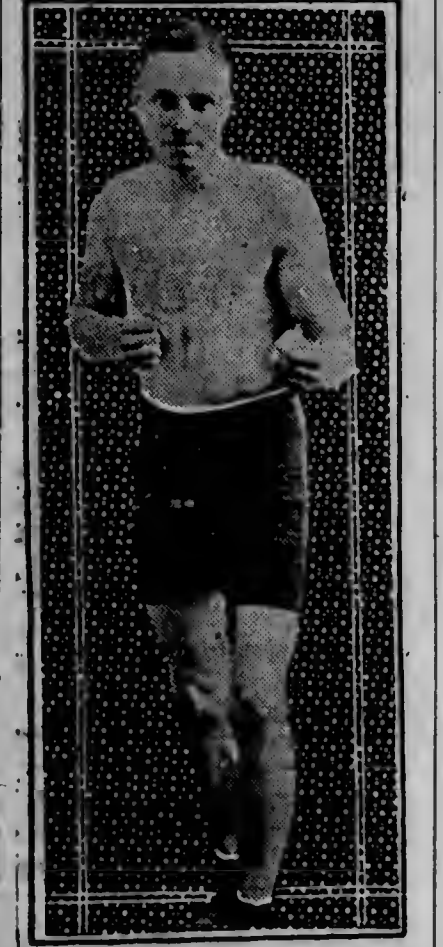

Paper Published by Savings Division,
Treasury Department, Takes Fall
Out of Missouri Editor

"When he was conducting his bond sales, Mr. McAdoo issued a statement in which he declared that the government did not ask the people for anything—it merely gave them an opportunity to make a good investment. Bond buyers who have seen their bonds depreciate would like to have Mr. McAdoo issue another statement on the same subject."

The above paragraph headed the editorial columns of the Perryville, Mo., Perry County Republican in its issue the first week in February. Just what was in Editor Cashion's brain when he penned the lines it is rather difficult to determine. The American Newspaper Annual describes the Messrs. Cashion's paper as Republican. Perhaps the editor wanted to write something political, and he may have reasoned that by attacking former Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo he was succeeding. But is it "politics" to attack the stability of the securities issued by the United States government? It may be politics, but if it is it is mad politics.

Mr. McAdoo certainly did make the statement—that liberty bonds were a good investment. Mr. Glass, who succeeded him, also made the same statement. Secretary Houston, who succeeded Glass, will also make the statement, and the Secretary of the Treasury who will succeed Secretary Houston, be he Republican or Democrat, will repeat the same statement. So really there is nothing political or even partisan in Mr. McAdoo's statement.

You Saw These Knockabout
Suits and Polo Coats in Vogue

Suit 4010 has consistently chosen Scotch Tweed mixtures to express the simple lines of this Knockabout suit which the tailored lady is wearing. A contrasting color to face collar and cuffs and a tiny piping of the same color through the belt add a touch of smartness.

Suit 4030 (on the lady at the left) is of Irish Honespun, and assumes a decidedly mannish air through the cut of its collar, cuffs and pockets. And by means of two buttons on each side of the skirt it combines straightness of line with walking comfort.

And we want you to know that we carry these coats and suits with the Wooltex label that stands for "That Well Dressed Look" for each and every type.

And you know that is really the secret of being well dressed at all times. It is having just the right costume—right for your type and right for certain kinds of occasions. The shoulders are snug, the back straight with stitched seam down the centre. It is open in back from about six inches below the waist to the hem. In the same colors as the "Pinchurst."

ing suit or a big soft Polo coat with a semi-sports air.

And how about your particular type? The models that bear the Wooltex label consider all types and adapt the favorites of the season to the different types. Note for instance the Knockabout suits, illustrated above—one on the strictly mannish type, another a bit more feminine. And the Polo Coat at the left with its swagger sports air; while the other Polo Coat at the right is just as smart but a trifle more dignified.

"Pinchurst." It's of French Blue Angora Polo, this little sports coat. The Gray Angora Tuxedo facing conceals two little pockets, and those sharp little points over the hips are extremely smart. The cuff is "linked," the shoulders snug, and the back full. It comes in Squirrel, French Blue and Tan—the Tuxedo collar is of self or contrasting Angora.

The Store That Sells Wooltex

Adoo's statement. He simply uttered a fact.

The United States government promised to pay a certain rate of interest on the Liberty Bonds. As rapidly as the interest days have come around the interest has been paid. Not a financier in all America doubts but that when the Liberty Bonds mature they will be paid in full. They are selling a little "off" on the market today. But the fault is not with the securities. It is because men who bought more than they could afford to carry are forced to sell. Or it is because some man is selling the best investment on earth to spend the proceeds for luxury.

Editor Cashion would do well to consult some of his friends before he pens any more editorial utterances in line with the above. No friend, if he is wise, would advise an attack on the securities of the government under which he lives if he were loyal to that country.

Oh hellum! He swans a diamond for a heart. Then they get married and use Clubs until the gravedigger produces a Spade.

MEAT PRICES MUST FALL

Retail meat dealers throughout the country must reduce their prices as the wholesale price of meat declines, or else submit their books to federal agents for investigation of their profits.

This definition of the government's attitude was announced by Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer. Instructions to serve the notice on all retail meat dealers have been sent to every United States district attorney, he said.

"For three months the price of meat has been falling," said Mr. Palmer. "The retail dealers have claimed that their supplies were old stock purchased at the higher prices. The old stocks should be exhausted by this time and unless the price to the consumer comes down we will have to look into the question of the dealers' profits."

Mr. Palmer's pronouncement on the meat price situation followed the publication by the Institute of America Meat Packers of a bulletin announcing the present cessation of foreign trade as a result of the adverse exchange situation. Wholesale meat prices at the Chicago yards dropped to pre-war levels for some grades following the pronouncement.

To Mart Lowrey: Your inquiry of "How to Make Hogs Pay." We would advise you never to sell a hog anything unless he pays for it in advance.

The glutton seems to believe that the only way for a man to hold his own is to eat it.

The Valley of Tribulation is an experience school on the highway to Joy.

The same old story! A fellow meets a charming queen—and talks to her for half a day. While she says things she doesn't mean and he means things he doesn't say.

And you may have noticed it is the fellow who can't afford to burn his money who has scorched fingers the day after pay-day.

Among the men there is always a lot of smoke when women are concerned, as a rule, very little fire.

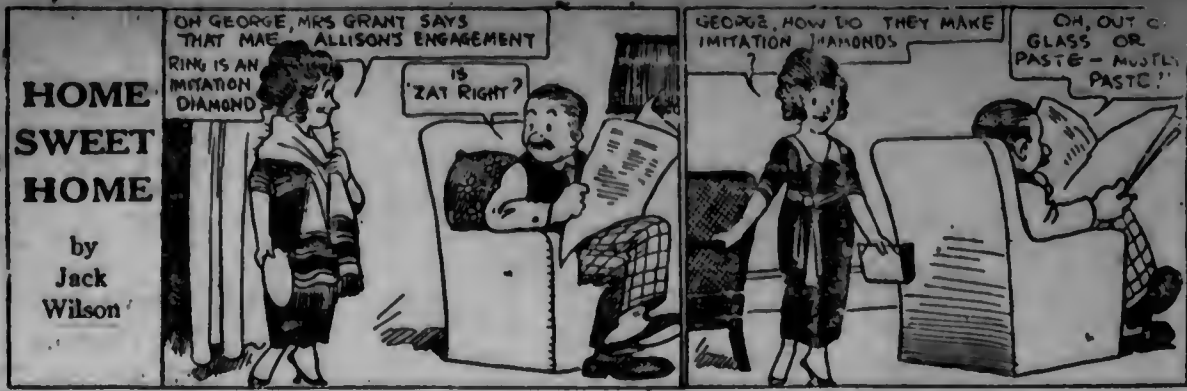

Children speak the truth until old folks break them of the habit.

OUR TERMS

Will be strictly 30 days. We have to pay for everything we buy not later than 10 days after it is shipped to us. Therefore we cannot run the long-time accounts we have in the past. Our prices will be based on a very small per cent. of profit, and one price to all. But if you do not settle your account at the expiration of thirty days we will have to add 8 per cent. interest to it. We appreciate your trade and will treat you right, but times have changed and we will all have to change with them. We hesitated a long time before taking this step, but owing to prevailing conditions we find this method imperative.

WAR BONDS DROP TO NEW LOW RECORDS

Indications that contraction of credits is becoming worldwide and that future estimates of values will have to adjust themselves to this condition caused further liquidation of securities on the Stock Exchange yesterday.

Speculative shares recorded additional losses of two to ten points, or a total of 25 to 120 points from their best quotations of the early weeks of the year. Seasoned or standard stocks were from 15 to 40 points lower for that period.

The bond market was affected in relative degree. Investment rails extended their steady depreciation of the past few months, while Liberty Bonds and Victory notes established lowest quotations in their history.

Local signs of tighter money were provided by an advance in call loans from 6 per cent. to 15 per cent. The federal reserve bank also deemed it expedient to advance rates of interest and discount as secured by treasury certificates.

Leaders of yesterday's reaction in the stock market were Crucible, Bethlehem, Republic, Lackawanna and United States Steels at extreme declines of two to nine points; Chandler, Pierce Arrow and Studebaker motors at two and a half to six points; oils and shippings at two to four points and affiliated specialties at three to six points.

FINE FARM LAND SOLD

The farm is about four miles north of this city, and is a part of the Col. Thomas Johnson farm. Possession will be given March 1st.

BUY A BUICK AND BE SATISFIED

CAN'T BE BOUGHT

Here's an incident, now published for the first time, which makes one think.

Henry C. Frick, some time before he died, was talking with a friend, a prominent business man of wealth, but more noted for his phenomenal popularity and his happy disposition. Said Mr. Frick, very earnestly:

"I am a very much richer man than you, but I would gladly exchange my wealth for yours if at the same time I could exchange what I get out of life for what you get out of it."

Mr. Frick added that he envied his friend his great public popularity and his ability to make friends and to enjoy life.

Mr. Frick indicated that it hurt him to think that his fellowmen regarded him as a cold-blooded man of affairs interested only in money-making.

Doesn't that spell tragedy, to your mind?

But Mr. Frick is not the only multi-millionaire who, toward the end of life, has expressed to intimates a similar feeling.

More than one ultra-rich man has confessed a like regret, says a writer in Forbes Magazine. They have been men who in their active days allowed business to take complete possession of their bodies and souls, and who neither had the inclination nor took the time to endeavor to win the love of their fellowmen.

They sold the finest things in life for a mess of pottage. And when the end came into sight they awoke to the tragic character of the bargain they had made.
